

EVEN NOW

From Album The Road To Freedom Special Edition . By Chris de Burgh . Written by Chris de Burgh

Even now,
when I think of all the summers that have gone, and all the friends and lovers I have known, still there is a memory that will not let me go,

And I see your face, and suddenly its just like yesterday, a photograph that never fades away, taking me to a place I thought I had left behind.

Even now, I wake up in the night because your name, has been wispered in my dreams, and I still miss you, even now.

And I wonder why,
after all the years that we have been apart, recently an aching in my heart, is bringing you back to me, are you out there calling me?

Even now, I think of how you're living every day, because there is someone who can say I still miss you, even now.

Even now, I wake up in the night, because your voice, has come wispering in my dreams, and I feel that you are near,
and I call your name, and I believe that there will be a day, when I will hold you once again, cause I still miss you, even now.

What I'm trying to say is I still love you, even now.

Even now.....